DRESS UP!

If we were asked what lesson nature teaches more than any other we should say that it teaches us to dress up. How beautifully the trees dress themselves in the vernal season-put on their Spring Suits, as it were. Wherever you turn the landscape wears its mantle of green, and the distant mountain tops evening, giving two of the most enjoyable are robed in fleecy clouds dashed into sunslight. Even the ocean depths, like a ghost, cover themselves with a sheet—of cert, arranged for by the advance reprewater. Everything tries to dress up except a raw recruit. Sheep sport all wool Overcoats, and the timid hart pants. Wild animals go about dressed in their skins, and even the birds have coats-in their stomachs. A swallow-tail coat is not affected by the society young man alone, for the anaconda will swallow-tail coat and all. Then get thyself a suit. Don't be like the man who knew no north, no south, no east, no west, but get Vest Coat and Pantaloons together, and be sure you buy them of

The matines cor entative of Mr. Gilmore, was not known by the band until they reached the city; onsequently two of the soloists, Herr Lax, the flutist, and Herr Matus, who plays the petite clarinet, were not on hand. Mr. Girmore explained this to the audience, and remarked: "What we are lacking infquality we will try to make up in quantity."

This remark offended the members of the band, and last night before the curtain went up they demanded an apology from the leader—and got it.

The audience yesterday afternoon was of fair else and composed largely of ladies, who, while quite as appreciative as the mixed audience of last night, did not make as much pairs. They appeared but once as much noise. They encored but once Miss Fritch's Spanish Waltz won a recall and she gave "Comin' Through the Rye." Signor Raffayolo gave a "Concerto Originale" of his own on the suphonium, which instrument is rarely mastered as he has mastered it. As an encore he gave a selection from "II Trovatore," Eilenberg's assusing romsnza, "The First Heart Throbs," was followed by Strause's "Pizzacata Polka" as an encore. Instead of the fute solo on the programme Signor de Carlo gave a lively solo on his piccolo, or two lively solos, playing a polka as an encore. The grand selection from Meyerbeer's "Propher" was perhaps the grandest thing of the evening, and it won the heartiest recall except that which greeted Miss Fritch's "Non in Sogno," from Verdi's "LeLombardi." She responded with a brilliant and entraucing bird song, "Sweetheart."

might have been the conduct of Bob Muldoon on the night in question, he should not be found guilty unless he created tumult and disorder tending to a breach of the peace. The case was given to the jury shortly after four o'clock, Judge Boyd instructing them that they should find Muldoon guilty if the evidence showed disorderly conduct on his part, whether such conduct was in the presence of the officer or not.

At 6 o'clock the jury had not agreed upon a verdict, and court adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

As soon as the case against Bob Muldoon for disorder was finished, Thomas Muldoon, the father, was put on trial for obstructing Oilleer Carney by force in the discharge of his duty. Several witnesses testified to the same state of affairs as was brought out in the former case, new evidence of the blow struck Carney by Muldoon and of the other acts of resistance being given. The evidence for the prosecution was not finished when the court adjourned.

The paving is rough and very uneven. The grade is such that a depression is left in the street, and the only opening to carry off the water that collects there is a narrow sewer opening, 18 by 12 inches, and barred at that, on one side and a still smaller opening on the other. Whenever there is a heavy rain the water overflows the sidewalks and into the business houses, and vestor rain the water overflows the sidewalks and into the business houses, and yesterday morning when a fire plug at the corner was cleaned out the first floors narrowly escaped being innundated. The plan adopted is the one first decided on by the Committee on Buildings and Grounds, and recommended to the Board for adoption, but which was thought by that body to call for a was thought by that body to call for a more expensive edifice than the people would be willing to psy for, or the Board was in a condition to provide at this time. It accordingly instructed the committee to procure plans for a cheaper building; this was done, but the difference in the cost of the building proposed by the first plan, and the one proposed by the plan selected from the second lot of plans advertised for, was sommall, that it was deemed the proper thing to do to erect the larger and better building. It will be one that will meet the demands of the district for yoars to come. The proceedings of that will meet the demands of the district for years to come. The proceedings of the meeting in detail are as follows:

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and the reports of the committees taken up for consideration. The Committee on Finance recommended that Euhoff and Clark, trustees, be paid $2 22; being a refund of taxes paid on an erroneous assessment; the clerk was ordered to draw his order in favor of the parties named. The Committee on Accounts presented bills aggregating $330 02, which were ordered paid. Mr. Dobbins, chairman of the committee, stated that since the committee meeting, he had learned that the building called for by the plan then before the Board could not be built for less than $30,000; indeed it was doubtful if a satisfactory building could be put up for less than that amount; that was the opinion of Architect Yost, of Columbus, who had come here to look at the ground with a of Architect Yost, of Columbus, who had come here to look at the ground with a view to drawing a plan. Mr. Dobbins moved, therefore, that the original plan recommended by the committee be adopted, and this was finally done. Mr. Hamilton's plan was brought up again and the cost of a building such as it called for inquired into. While the committee stated that Mr. Hamilton had said it would cost but $35.000 they pointed out sayeral des ut $25,000 they pointed out several de efects that made it unavailable.

The original plan having been adopted, Mr. Dobbins moved that the contract for its erection be awarded to Klevis, Kraft & Co. at their bid of $33,550, made one month ago, provided the firm would agree to that figure now; this was agreed to and the officers of the Board instructed to sign the proper papers. The price named does not include the heating apparatus which will cost about $3,000; the interest on deferred payments and new furniture will run the cost of the building up to about $40,000.

Reserved seats for the engagement of this farcical comedy, at the Opera House Saturday night, will be placed on sale at Baumer's music store this morning. The Detroit Fost and Tribbuse says: The principal characters, the two Johns, are taken by two really clever comedians, who are so remarkably alike, in rotundity, features and voice, as to occasion no end of laughter by the numerous cases of mistaken identity and the laughable incidents connected therewith. The play was undoubtedly suggested by the Comedy of Errors. The support is good—the company comprising several very fine singers, who intersperse the performances with their various specialtics.

Too little attention has been paid to this wonderful field of recent study, which is connected with early Biblical history, and attests with all the powerful emphasis of scientific exactness the truthfulness of the Bible records. The Longfellow programme which followed the lecture was charming and instructive. Mr. Morrison read a most noble paper on Longfellow, giving many facts of his beautiful life, and setting forth the influences which contributed to his powers, illustrating his points as he went on with apt quotations from the poet's writing. Miss Brady and Miss Horkheimer read delightfully, the first "Sandalphon," and the second "Courtship of Miles Standish." The music was a very pleasing feature of the entertainment. It Miles Standish."
